ILG BUSINESS SIGN 3 YEAR SPONSORSHIP DEAL WITH ENGLAND'S OWEN FARRELL

TONBRIDGE, Kent - October, 2012

With a wealth of experience in the technology field, izzyj brings a team of app developers and designers to review the best, latest apps out there. The izzyj team's experience working with Apple devices has allowed them to produce a variety of video tutorials to guide you through the ever-changing world of Apple. From the simplest tasks to those that you may never knew were possible, izzyj will enlighten you to the functions and capabilities of your device so you can enjoy it that little bit more!

Owen Farrell was selected for his first England call-up for the 2012 Six Nations Championships and remains to be an exciting talent for the future of English rugby. After holding the record for the youngest ever player to appear in English professional rugby union after playing for Saracens 11 days after his 17th birthday.

Izzyj was created through ILG Business LTD, an established company within their field of mobile technology and application development. Having developed a range of public and enterprise applications for a range of professional sports teams, including Saracens. Owen has been working closely with ILG and the ILG Elite Sports Application to further forward the app for the players. ILG Business is currently represented by their Ambassador Richard Wigglesworth, therefore the new addition of Owen Farrell will provide a great partnership going forward.

"Owen is a great asset to our company and we are excited for future prospects as Owen is an extremely talented young athlete with a bright future ahead of him. ILG Business is pleased to be part of his future." Richard Groves, Company Director.
